Frequently Asked Questions

Q: Are your items authentic?

A: Yes—everything is 100% authentic. I'm a Certified Louis Vuitton and Gucci Authenticator through LegitGrails and a Verified Authenticate Reseller on Poshmark. If you'd like extra assurance, you're welcome to submit photos to any authentication service before purchase. I'm happy to guide you, but you are responsible for any fees.

Q: I have a bag to sell. Are you interested?

A: Possibly. Please email clear, well-lit photos of all angles to JillsLuxuryLeatherGoods@gmail.com, along with the lowest price you're willing to accept. To keep things efficient, I avoid long price negotiations.

Please remember that resale platforms take significant fees—Poshmark keeps 20%, and Massachusetts sellers typically owe around 27% in taxes. Resale sites also issue 1099s, so you may need an accountant. I'll review your photos and let you know if I'm interested.

Q: Do you offer repairs?

A: No. My insurance doesn't cover taking items in for repair, and I want to avoid any risk to your bag. I can, however, recommend an excellent cobbler who specializes in luxury items.

Q: How do you source your items?

A: I partner with reputable suppliers worldwide and buy in bulk when possible. I personally handle all cleaning and refurbishment so I can offer high-quality items at competitive prices.

Q: How did you get into this?

A: I've loved handbags since childhood and have always enjoyed restoring items. My career spans nearly 20 years in Retail Management, Digital/Mobile Analytics, and Program Management, including roles at Nordstrom, Kohl's, PacSun, CVS, and Amazon (Alexa AI). In April 2024, I shifted full-time to Jill's Luxury Leather Goods to follow my passion.
